

Walter Scott's Personality Parade

Q. Isn't it a fact that Allen Dulles was removed from the CIA by the late President Kennedy as a result of his incompetence in the Cuban fiasco? If this is so, then why would President Johnson select him as a member of the Warren Commission, investigating the assassination of Kennedy?—Eileen Salmon, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A. Dulles was a top intelligence agent in World War II, did a brilliant job as chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, resigned from that Agency and was not removed, is recognized as a man of character, probity, sagacity and unblemished reputation.
